Renewables using digested municipal and combined wastes for production of electricity and vehicle grade CNG

Paul Tower
Robinson Group

Abstract
Digester biogas can be a valuable asset to plant operations if processed correctly by a supplier with a history of performance and support. Biogas use in Hawaii can present a significant cost saving advantage to Waste Water and Combined Waste facilities to reduce power purchase costs. This presentation will examine the opportunity for its cost effective use.